#1075 A weekly bulletin for residents of Auroville 17 April 2025

One who performs his duty without attachment, surrendering the results unto the Supreme God, is unaffected by sinful action, as the lotus leaf is untouched by water.
Bhagavad Gita, 5.10

Pondering

This new consciousness must be a synthetic consciousness. It must embrace and harmonise all the different parts of our being. It must be a consciousness in which the individual, the nation, and humanity are all seen as parts of a single whole. It must be a consciousness in which the divine in each individual is realised, and in which all individuals are seen as equal parts of the Divine. It must be a consciousness which is not only intellectual and emotional, but also spiritual and supramental.

The Ideal of Human Unity

House of Mother's Agenda

Aphorism 167: God within is leading us always aright even when we are in the bonds of the ignorance; but then, though the goal is sure, it is attained by circlings and deviations.

The goal foreseen by the Divine is always attained, but only those whose consciousness is united with the Divine Consciousness attain it directly and knowingly; the others—the vast majority of those who are conscious only of their external being—attain this goal only after having made many detours, which often seemed to be going in the opposite direction.

Auroville Connect

This week we share an article by a fellow traveller on this great adventure called Auroville & a point of resonance

AUROVILLE, A LABORATORY OF CONSCIOUSNESS

In Tension and in the Making

There is unity, but the illusion of separation dominates.

The universe is one, but humanity perceives fragmentation. Auroville, founded on a vision of embodied unity, is today torn by conflicts that are not ideological or ecological, but much deeper: conflicts of existence, of preferences and of ego.

Here, ecology is often no more than a pretext, a fashionable cover to mask fear of the unknown, resistance to change and the need for reassuring compromises.

The Indian government's intervention reveals this tension:

Some see it as a call to order, an attempt to speed up a project perceived as stagnant. In reality, it is a reaction to inaction, to the gradual renunciation in the face of challenges, to the habit of postponing the ideal on the pretext that it is too big, too ambitious. Hiding behind the argument of 'adapting to today's reality' amounts to abandoning what Auroville exists for.

Others see this intervention as an intrusion contrary to the founding spirit of Auroville. But if this intrusion has been possible, it is because we ourselves have allowed it. It mirrors our own divisions, our lack of real commitment to the original vision. Auroville cannot be violated from the outside; it is from within that the loss of direction takes place.

Humanity is a passage, but Auroville is struggling to come to terms with it.

Unity can be achieved internally, but Sri Aurobindo insists on its incarnation in matter. This does not mean endless discussions, but action, concrete adherence to an ideal that goes beyond individual preferences. The willing servant does not debate; he serves. The intellect divides, the mind wants to control; aspiration unites and sets things in motion.

Auroville, conceived as a living laboratory of transformation, today faces a paradox: everyone thinks they know better than the other how it should evolve. But how can the unknown be defined in advance? Adhering to a vision is not about imposing opinions, but about fully surrendering to it.

The Master Plan, far from being a rigid constraint, is an opening, a window to the infinite, with beauty and perfection as its horizons. For some, this freedom is dizzying and elusive. For others, it is the very essence of the Aurovilian experience.

But the rejection of the initial plan is not a desire for destruction. It is often a disguised way of giving up, a way of saying that the ideal is too difficult, that it should be made 'more coherent' or 'more realistic'. But is dreaming inconsistent? Isn't true coherence about rising to the top of the aspiration rather than adjusting the aspiration to what seems attainable? The future belongs to those who dare and surpass themselves.

Government intervention: symptom, necessity or opportunity?

The intervention of the Indian government is the direct result of our inability to embody our own ideals. Whether we perceive it as a threat or a necessity is irrelevant; what counts is understanding why it was made possible.

If Auroville had been able to align itself with its vision, it would not have needed outside intervention. But by multiplying compromises and allowing divisions to take root, it opened the door to an administrative framework that operates on a very different basis: management, structure and control.

Auroville is based on a spiritual and experimental dynamic, but this dynamic cannot remain a concept. It must be translated into action. Otherwise, others will decide for us—and that's not a threat, it's a fact.

The real issue, then, is not so much government intervention as Auroville's ability to become autonomous in consciousness, to re-align itself with its essence.

The real question: an evolution in consciousness or a power struggle?

Being is free, but the ego creates resistance. The current tensions are not simply disagreements over the application of the Master Plan or the management of State intervention; they reveal a deeper difficulty: humanity is struggling to detach itself from the need for control, possession and opinion.

This is not a conflict between tradition and modernity. It's not even a debate. Loyalty to Auroville does not mean blind rigidity or adjustments dictated by convenience. It involves constant aspiration, without preferences, without limiting mental projections.

The idea of adapting Mother's vision to our current understanding is an illusion. Mother didn't give us an instruction manual; she gave us an impetus, a call to go beyond ourselves. Who are we to decide what is possible and what is not?

When opposition becomes a power struggle, dialogue becomes impossible and outside intervention became inevitable. But it is not compromises that will enable Auroville to find its way back. There is only one thing: pure and total adherence to what is beyond each of us.

Current tensions: an initiatory passage.

Auroville is an experiment in consciousness in matter. And matter, by its very nature, resists. This crisis is not a failure, but an opportunity.

If Auroville is to remain true to its essence, it must overcome duality and recognise that the only true reality is the aspiration towards the Divine. It is not the material world that must be integrated into the Auroville ideal, it is Auroville that must be a breakthrough of aspiration in the material world.

The government's intervention sends out a strong signal:

Either Auroville finds within itself the strength to transcend its divisions, and this intervention will become obsolete. India, in its profound wisdom, will then leave Auroville to its own destiny. Either it remains a prisoner of ego and power games, and becomes a mere administrative town...?

But beyond any analysis, there is one absolute truth: faith in the intervention and guidance of the Divine, despite everything and everyone.

Auroville is not a human project. The consciousness that inspired it transcends all individual or collective wills. Evolution cannot be stopped.

Conclusion: Auroville's future depends on its ability to truly embody its ideal.

Unity does not have to be created; it must be revealed and materialised in matter.

This embodiment in matter is not an option, it is the very essence of the project.

The current tensions are not a legitimate debate; they are a symptom of the ego's resistance to the inevitable.

Collective evolution cannot be decreed, it cannot be imposed; it is the fruit of pure aspiration, without attachment to forms or mental resistance.

Auroville can overcome this crisis, but this will only happen if consciousness prevails over the ego, if adherence to the ideal becomes total, and if trust in the Divine remains at the centre of the path.

The future of Auroville is not in our hands: it belongs to the aspiration that runs through us and to our ability to serve it, without expectations or doubts.

"The moment we recognize, as our enlarging experience compels us to recognize, that there are in the universe knowable realities beyond the range of the senses and in man powers and faculties which determine rather than are determined by the material organs through which they hold themselves in touch with the world of the senses,—that outer shell of our true and complete existence,—the premises of materialistic Agnosticism disappears. We are ready for a large statement and an ever-developing inquiry."—The Life Divine, Sri Aurobindo

- 21 April: Centenary of the Mother's Return to Sri Aurobindo (24.4.1920—2020). This impressive documentary slideshow by the Sri Aurobindo International Centre of Education recounts the Mother's journey in Her own words from childhood till Her final arrival in Pondicherry. Duration: 48min.

The Mother was born on the 21 February 1878 in Paris. She was named Blanche Rachel Mirra Alfassa. Her parents had emigrated to Paris, France, a few months before her birth.

The Mother narrated that her conscious inner life began very early. She liked to sit in her small, cushioned armchair when she was five years old. She had the experience of consciousness above the head, which she felt like a Light and a Force, a pleasant and luminous sensation. And she felt, "That's what I have to live, what I have to be."

Also, during her sleep, she had many out-of-body experiences. When she was about thirteen, she went out of her body clad in a magnificent golden robe and rose very high above her house and the city. The radiance of her golden robe gave solace to the suffering and the sick, the children, the old, the women, and the men. Referring to this experience, she remarked: "Nothing seemed more beautiful for me, nothing could make me happier; and all the activities of the day seemed dull and colourless and without any real life, besides this activity of the night which was the true life for me."

She added: "Between 11 and 13, a series of psychic and spiritual experiences revealed to me not only the existence of God but man's possibility of uniting with Him, of realising Him integrally in consciousness and action, of manifesting Him upon earth in a life divine. This, along with a practical discipline for its fulfilment, was given to me during my body's sleep by several teachers, some of whom I met afterwards on the physical plane". With one of these teachers, she had a special relationship, and she was led to call him Krishna.

Along with these inner activities, the Mother pursued her outer development, and her favourite activities were music and painting.

When the Mother was twenty or twenty-one, an Indian man gave her a translation of the Gita: "He said, 'Read the Gita and take Krishna as the immanent God, the inner God-head.... the God who is within you.' Well, in one month the whole work was done! The first time I knew that there was a discovery to make within me, well, that was the most important thing! This had to be put before everything!"

Around 1903, when she was twenty-five, the Mother had several visions of a man in Indian dress. Later, she found that the man in her visions was Sri Aurobindo.

Then, between 1911 and 1914, the Mother had a whole series of inner experiences, which, she said, prepared her for meeting Sri Aurobindo. About one experience, she remarked: "The first contact, when you go within and THAT'S IT... that concrete reality, that intensity beyond any possible physical intensity. And then the sense of: that's IT—the Divine... ...to enter into contact with the immanent God. I did nothing but that, thought of nothing but that, wanted nothing but that." The Mother practiced a one-pointed aspiration for the "Union with the inner Divine". And finally, she experienced "...that light, that dazzling light, that light and immensity. And the sense of THAT willing, THAT knowing, THAT ruling the whole life, THAT guiding everything..."

In 1910, the Mother saw a picture of Sri Aurobindo. And in spring 1914, she travelled to Pondicherry, arriving there in the morning of the 29 March. She saw Sri Aurobindo in the late afternoon: "I climbed up the stairway and he was standing there, waiting for me at the top of the stairs.... Exactly My Vision! Dressed the same way, ... and I saw his eyes and I saw in his eyes that it was He." The Mother had met Krishna, the one who she knew she would meet one day in the body. They shared their spiritual experiences and worked together on the monthly philosophical review Arya, published in French and English.

In February 1915, because of the First World War, the Mother had to leave for France. Then, in 1916—1920, she lived in Japan and was exploring its unique and profound culture. Finally, on the 24 April 1920, the Mother came back to Pondicherry and Sri Aurobindo. About their meeting on that day, the Mother said the following:

"We were standing side by side like that, gazing out through the open window, and then Together, at exactly the same moment, we felt "Now the Realization will be accomplished" ...I felt the Thing descending massively within me, with the same certainty I had felt in my vision. From that moment on there was nothing to say—no words, nothing. We knew it was THAT."

- The documentary can be seen at the Sri Aurobindo Ashram website.

Open to all levels, sessions include reading, vocabulary exploration, and group discussions in French, English, or Tamil. Led by Augustin (Tamil/ English) and Jean-François (French).

FEMINITY AND CORPOREALITY IN BOLLYWOOD CINEMA Through French Philosophical thought

A conference by Dr. Pattnaik

In English with simultaneous translation in French

Monday, 29 April, 5pm @ Cinema Paradiso

The lecture will begin by exploring the radical idea that Simone de Beauvoir proffered that one is not born but becomes a woman. Michel Foucault has reminded us that the body, corporeality is not a natural fact, a given in life but has a genealogy and a history. We will explore through the work of these philosophers and contemporary Indian cinema how corporeality and the notion of the feminine are configured and materialised on screen through dominant power structures, as they open up vistas of resistance. The lecture will foreground the body as a site of pedagogy and feminist philosophy and a space of critical subversion.

Dr. Sonali Pattnaik is a poet, author, academic, and visual artist with over 20 years of teaching experience. She holds a PhD in English and specializes in gender, cinema, and visual studies. Her work has been widely published and awarded, both in India and internationally.

Simultaneous translation in French will be available through headphones during the conference.

BEING-NATURE-BEING-FOREST

Walk in Presence with Aikya every Monday, 4—6pm

@ Auroville Forest

Having lived for almost 30 years in Auroville, I got to feel the rhythm and subtleties of the forest. And still now, every time, there is something new to discover in the outside nature or in my inside nature. The forest helps me to consciously slow down, and helps in refining my senses.

If I then open to the living wisdom of Nature, a subtle air almost, a Presence of the living, I feel myself, my body bathing in a conscious light of joy and beauty.

I now offer this re-connection to others, to you.

- Meeting point in front of Auroville Library to take you to a special location.
- Very small groups, please register sending a message to this number: +32491259966 WA.
- Contribution: Between 600 and 1000Rs depending on what you can give. Discounts available for groups, Aurovilians, Newcomers and Savi Volunteers.
- Good to know: Carry your water, have a mode of transport, come open hearted.

KINDNESS WITHOUT EXPECTATION OF RETURN

Storytelling by Elli

One pleasant summer morning, a small boy went out to play by the riverbank, where the water flow was moderate. While playing, he found himself far from the shore, where the water was unstable. Suddenly, the boy began to sink and, out of fear, started shouting for help.

A local farmer, busy working his field, heard the cries for help. Without hesitation, he left his work and followed the cries. Upon reaching the riverbank, he saw the boy waving his hands and shouting for rescue. Without thinking twice, he immediately jumped into the water, swam to the boy, pulled him by the arms, brought him to the shore, hugged him, calmed him, cleaned him, and sent him home. The farmer then returned to his work in the field.

The next morning, the farmer noticed a luxurious car arriving at his home's courtyard. A distinguished-looking man stepped out and stood at the farmer's door. The farmer came out and looked at the stranger. The man extended his hand with a broad smile and said he was the father of the boy the farmer had saved yesterday and had come to thank him and repay him.

The farmer looked at the man before him, smiled, and said: 'Thank you, sir. I did what I did because it was a mitzvah from my heart, and that is my reward—the opportunity to help is the reward. Thank you.'

The distinguished man hesitated for a moment. At that moment, the farmer's son, about the same age as the man's son, came out of the house. The man saw him, an idea came to his mind, and he said to the farmer: 'I would be very happy if you would allow me to take your son under my patronage and fund his education. I have money and connections and would very much like to be your son's sponsor. Please.'

The farmer pondered. He knew he wouldn't be able to provide his son with a broad, good, and beneficial education. A smile appeared on his face, and he said: 'I like this idea very much. It's a respectable and fitting reward.'

Thanks to the rich man's help, Alexander Fleming was admitted to the best schools in Britain and became one of the most outstanding students. He was accepted into a prestigious medical school. During his studies and laboratory work, in 1928, he discovered penicillin, a discovery that saved millions of people worldwide.

But our story doesn't end here; listen and hear:

During World War II, the son of that rich man fell ill with a lung disease, and hope for his recovery was lost. Then they brought penicillin, which saved his life. That person who was saved was none other than Winston Churchill, who served as Britain's Prime Minister twice.

This story shows us that kindness and seeing others are qualities that bring good karma. Do good just for the opportunity to do for others, without expecting anything in return.

Stay tuned for upcoming articles. Thank you.

SURMOUNTING THE CORRUPTION Of Money, Power, and Sex

I asked the following questions to both incarnateword.in/AskAi and ChatGPT (full archived Q&A HERE) with very interesting and appropriate answers:

- Can you find references of Sri Aurobindo and the Mother warning on the dangers of being corrupted by the lure of money, power and sex and the adverse and hostile beings behind them?
- As these adverse and hostile asuric and rakshasic forces are very powerful beings, can you outline the rationale of the core aim of the Divine Manifestation of the new apex species the Supramental being, of finally transforming or destroying these adverse and hostile forces from this universe?
- Can you outline the significance of Auroville in working consciously to hasten the advent of the new apex species, the Supramental being, and the challenges that the invited willing servitors of the Divine Consciousness will encounter and how to surmount these challenges?
- What is the role of the Central Government of India in the progress and success of the core aim of Auroville to hasten the advent of the Supramental being?
- As Earth is a battlefield between the Divine and undivine consciousness-forces with Auroville and India as concentrations of the battle towards the Divine Manifestation of the new apex species, the Supramental being, what are the most conducive attitudes for the aspiring servitors of the Divine Consciousness to cultivate and act on during the transitional stages?
- I have retitled this conversation to "Surmounting the Corruption of Money, Power and Sex". What can you say about it?

QUIET HEALING CENTER

Woga® Class with Friederike & Tamara (Yoga in Water)

- Monday, 21 April, 4:30—6pm

Discover the benefits of yoga in warm water! Woga is based on classic yoga poses and stretches, modified for standing in pool water, which is waist-to-chest high. Classes are structured like their yoga equivalent on land: breathing, warm-up exercises, a series of poses, and a relaxation period. The substantial decrease of gravity in warm water allows greater ease of movement, unblocks articulations, lengthens & melts muscles, and removes negative tensions, thereby preventing stress, insomnia and anxiety.

- Prerequisites: no previous experience required (also no need to know how to swim!).

Woga® (Yoga in Water) Course 1 & 2 with Dariya

- 25—26 April, 8:45—5pm, 12 hours

Woga is a combination of two words: water and yoga. It is based on classic yoga poses and stretches, modified for standing in water that is waist-to-chest height. Woga focuses on Hatha Yoga in water, including asanas performed in standing position, against the wall, in floating position, and under water. The course also includes pranayama and meditation.

Classes follow a structure similar to land-based yoga: breathing exercises, warm-ups, a series of poses, and a relaxation period. The key difference is that you are in a warm water pool! Swimming skills are not required.

By reducing the effects of gravity, water allows ease of movements, unblocks joints, lengthens and relaxes muscles, alleviates negative tensions, and prevents stress, insomnia and anxiety.

- Prerequisites: no previous experience required (also no need to know how to swim).

EXPERIENCE THE POWER OF KUNDALINI YOGA

Thursdays, 5—6:30pm @ Hall of Light, Creativity,

Saturdays, 11am—12:30pm @ Pitanga

Kundalini Yoga is an ancient form of yoga that combines movement, breath, sound, and meditation to bring the practitioner into a balanced and harmonious state of being.

The unique combination of repetitive movements followed by periods of stillness in Kundalini Yoga sets it apart from other forms of yoga practice.

The skillful integration of these elements helps re-educate the nervous system, allowing it to relax deeply and enabling participants to experience an elevated state of well-being.

Other key benefits of this powerful practice include:

Physical Benefits: Kundalini Yoga can improve flexibility, strength, and balance while reducing pain and enhancing overall physical health.

Mental Clarity: Regular practice enhances focus, reduces stress, and promotes emotional well-being, leading to a calm and centered mind.

Spiritual Growth: Kundalini Yoga helps deepen your connection with your inner self, expand consciousness, and cultivate a sense of purpose and meaning.
