Pondering

The Divine is that from which all comes, in which all lives, and to return to the truth of the Divine now clouded over by Ignorance is the soul's aim in life. In its supreme Truth, the Divine is absolute and infinite peace, consciousness, existence, power and Ananda.

House of Mother's Agenda

It is the incompleteness and weakness of the Consciousness Force manifested in the mental, vital and physical being, its inability to receive or refuse at will, or, receiving, to assimilate or harmonise the contacts of the universal Energy cast upon it, that is the cause of pain and suffering. In the material realm Nature starts with an entire insensibility, and it is a notable fact that either a comparative insensibility or a deficient sensibility or, more often, a greater endurance and hardness to suffering is found in the beginnings of life, in the animal, in primitive or less developed man; as the human being grows in evolution, he grows in sensibility and suffers more keenly in mind and life and body. For the growth in consciousness is not sufficiently supported by a growth in force; the body becomes more subtle, more finely capable, but less solidly efficient in its external energy: man has to call in his will, his mental power to dynamise, correct and control his nervous being, force it to the strenuous tasks he demands from his instruments, steel it against suffering and disaster. In the spiritual ascent this power of the consciousness and its will over the instruments, the control of spirit and inner mind over the outer mentality and the nervous being and the body, increases immensely; a tranquil and wide equality of the spirit to all shocks and contacts comes in and becomes the habitual poise, and this can pass from the mind to the vital parts and establish there too an immense and enduring largeness of strength and peace; even in the body this state may form itself and meet inwardly the shocks of grief and pain and all kinds of suffering. Even, a power of willed physical insensibility can intervene or a power of mental separation from all shock and injury can be acquired which shows that the ordinary reactions and the debile submission of the bodily self to the normal habits of response of material Nature are not obligatory or unalterable. Still more significant is the power that comes on the level of spiritual mind or overmind to change the vibrations of pain into vibrations of Ananda: even if this were to go only up to a certain point, it indicates the possibility of an entire reversal of the ordinary rule of the reacting consciousness; it can be associated too with a power of self-protection that turns away the shocks that are more difficult to transmute or to endure. The gnostic evolution at a certain stage must bring about a completeness of this reversal and of this power of self-protection which will fulfil the claim of the body for immunity and serenity of its being and for deliverance from suffering and build in it a power for the total delight of existence. A spiritual Ananda can flow into the body and inundate cell and tissue; a luminous materialisation of this higher Ananda could of itself bring about a total transformation of the deficient or adverse sensibilities of physical Nature.

An aspiration, a demand for the supreme and total delight of existence is there secretly in the whole make of our being, but it is disguised by the separation of our parts of nature and their differing urge and obscured by their inability to conceive or seize anything more than a superficial pleasure. In the body consciousness this demand takes shape as a need of bodily happiness, in our life parts as a yearning for life happiness, a keen vibrant response to joy and rapture of many kinds and to all surprise of satisfaction; in the mind it shapes into a ready reception of all forms of mental delight; on a higher level it becomes apparent in the spiritual mind's call for peace and divine ecstasy. This trend is founded in the truth of the being; for Ananda is the very essence of the Brahman, it is the supreme nature of the omnipresent Reality. The supermind itself in the descending degrees of the manifestation emerges from the Ananda and in the evolutionary ascent merges into the Ananda. It is not, indeed, merged in the sense of being extinguished or abolished but is there inherent in it, indistinguishable from the self of awareness and the self effectuating force of the Bliss of Being. In the involutionary descent as in the evolutionary return supermind is supported by the original Delight of Existence and carries that in it in all its activities as their sustaining essence; for Consciousness, we may say, is its parent power in the Spirit, but Ananda is the spiritual matrix from which it manifests and the maintaining source into which it carries back the soul in its return to the status of the Spirit. A supramental manifestation in its ascent would have as a next sequence and culmination of self-result a manifestation of the Bliss of the Brahman: the evolution of the being of gnosis would be followed by an evolution of the being of bliss; an embodiment of gnostic existence would have as its consequence an embodiment of the beatific existence. Always in the being of gnosis, in the life of the gnosis some power of the Ananda would be there as an inseparable and pervading significance of supramental self-experience. In the liberation of the soul from the Ignorance the first foundation is peace, calm, the silence and quietude of the Eternal and Infinite; but a consummate power and greater formation of the spiritual ascension takes up this peace of liberation into the bliss of a perfect experience and realisation of the eternal beatitude, the bliss of the Eternal and Infinite. This Ananda would be inherent in the gnostic consciousness as a universal delight and would grow with the evolution of the gnostic nature.

Obituary

MR. PETER'S Memorable Moments with the Mother

It was at the end of December 1970 when I was landing at New Delhi airport on a four weeks surprise trip to India. I was warmly greeted by the golden rays of an early morning sun when coming down the gangway and breathing in the fresh air of a misty dawn. It was my first encounter with India and it was during that first day that I was struck by an overwhelming and deep sensation of finally coming home. When travelling through Northern India the following weeks that intensive impression never left me and did warmly colour my daily encounters. It was like looking through the eyes of the soul and the soul only. An atmosphere of inner calm and timelessness took hold of me. I was as if embraced by Mother India and had no choice but to dismiss my scheduled return flight and instead to embark on a long lasting memorable journey through the whole of India with just a hundred dollars left in my pocket. At that moment of utter freedom it was only logical to choose Pondicherry as the very first goal and destiny because there was the Sri Aurobindo Ashram which persistently had remained in my memory.

Way back in Germany, after having been part of the student revolt at West Berlin's universities seeking a radically new way of life I came across a book of a newly published paperback edition, a series of monographs, the first one being dedicated to Sri Aurobindo. This simple and honest account of his life, thoughts and universal work had an enormous impact on my life: finally I had found somebody who could convincingly 'explain' to me everything and without flaw—no questions left!

It triggered in myself a stunning recognition of the essential oneness of all life and beyond all mental comprehension it became the one book carrying the one magic word changing my life. This experience stayed on in my body like a rock, it never left me.

Now, just one year later, having been thrown into India as if out of the blue and following its call against all odds, it was only natural to turn my attention to Pondicherry straight away, what else?! It was the beginning of a new adventure: The early morning ride from the station through the small township was graced by a serene atmosphere which became ever more tangible when coming closer to the Ashram.

Days later in the Ashram guesthouse I heard news about the 'birthday darshan of the Mother' whose portraits were seen everywhere. At first I did not pay much attention to frequent invitations to come to her 'darshan'. This 'Mother' was barely in my mind and even less on my agenda. Obviously didn't she leave the same impression in that famous book? Moreover I wasn't too much interested to see a 'guru' or a 'grande dame' at her balcony. Yet, as destiny willed I was gently encouraged by one of those early pioneers from Auroville to go anyway so as to look for myself what's on with 'the pope on the balcony'. Well, it turned out to be the most memorable event of my life.

It was February 21 under a warm Indian afternoon sun when we arrived in that small street adjacent to the main ashram building where already thousands of devotees had gathered. It seemed they had come from all over India, most of them in their traditional white clothing, a few westerners among them. There was a lot of chatting and excitement mixed with an atmosphere of intense expectation for that special moment to come. I landed just in the middle of the packed crowd getting fully the feel of it all. By and then one or the other was looking intensely up to the roof terrace where the Mother was to appear at any moment.

Suddenly a great silence descended on all and everybody, the air felt still and compact, when a small hand was seen groping along the railing up there. Then a little face was emerging slowly from behind radiating the presence of a great power.

I was stunned: as if looking into the face of a baby ape I was looking into the face of evolution itself. When hearing two westerners next to me talking to each other like: oh; she is old and fragile, I was wondering in utter disbelief—look, can't you see, cant you see the eternal himself?! During those minutes of eternity and feeling the massive experience in my body I followed Her when she was slowly moving down the railing from one end to the other. At one moment she suddenly was like throwing herself over the railing with such a concentrated power so to reach out to everybody, no one to be left out, to perceive all, to be seen by everyone who had gathered there from one end of the street to the other—and everybody was looking up to her.

I was caught by her overwhelming glance, a stream of compact energy from eye to eye, soul to soul, in utter abandon and trust...

Long after the Mother had retreated to her room and the crowd had dissolved I was still standing there all alone in the deserted street, I had not moved an inch as if glued to that sacred power point where that Presence was still there all powerful, that feeling of total bond without fear ... and no time, no time.

It sounded as if from far away when my companion, trying to get me back to time-bound reality, appealed to me: Peter, she is gone since long, let's go! — yes, yes, I made an attempt to gather myself and to get going, but only to sit down a few steps further at the edge of the street ... remaining there for a very long time keeping my sacred space.

For many years I didn't talk to anybody about my precious experience. To myself I could say that I never felt such a power emanating from a human being, an overwhelming power, which instead of closing me because of fear it opened me up like a flower to the sun, because it is the power of all encompassing love. At that eternal moment there was no more outside, there was only that immense presence lived through the feeling of an indestructible bond of consciousness-force.

Much later, when asked and recounting my experience to friends and seekers alike, it dawned to me that this very day may have been really my day, 'my' darshan.

Anyway it happened to be the last and decisive encounter which changed the course of my life, all beginning with a simple book on Sri Aurobindo, the divine word in action, with the discovery of Mother India as being my spiritual homeland, and Auroville, the promised land, 'the tower of babel in reverse'.

I remain for ever grateful that I have been offered these four essential gifts of my life which nourish me, give me strength and the power of joy.

FAREWELL PETER A.

Peter Anderschitz (born 1942, Berlin) was a long-time Aurovillian. He completed his architecture studies in 1968–69 but did not seek a permanent position. In a recent radio interview in German language, he clarified, “I didn’t want to play the naive architect in a society that was fundamentally flawed—that was how I radically perceived and felt things back then. So, after my studies—and I loved my profession, and still do—I drove a taxi. I loved that too, because driving a taxi allowed me to get to know society as a whole.”

He came to India in 1971, having read Sri Aurobindo, and happened to arrive in Auroville at the Foundation Ceremony for Matrimandir. In Sri Aurobindo’s writings, he had found a worldview and an understanding of the whole—of micro and macro, inner and outer, past and future, the complexity of which really struck a chord with him.

On 21 February 1971 he attended a balcony Darshan by the Mother in Pondy that made a lasting impression on him (see video link). To come to India and Auroville was, for him, like coming home. He settled in Auroville for good in 1973 and has since worked in various community services and has given talks about Auroville in India as well as in Europe.

In 1980 Peter, along with Anupama Kundoo, Dharmesh and two other Aurovillians established the community of Petite Ferme. Peter began to build a house there for himself, bit by bit, on the basis of sustainable principles, but never completely finished it. He called it essentially a ‘non-design’—it grew organically, which he felt was part of its charm. This house was the first to be built using stabilized rammed earth.

In November 1981, a year after the Government of India had passed the Auroville (Emergency Provisions) Act, Peter, along with two other Aurovillians, Dorothee Hach and Yusuf Kassim, decided to make an extensive trip through Europe and call upon all of Auroville’s friends to see if their interaction with Auroville could be intensified. The trip culminated in a conference in Auroc, Bergerac, a small place in the south of France. This meeting resulted in the beginning of Auroville International or AVI, which later led to the establishment of many official and unofficial AVI centres all over the world. (Our History • Auroville International)

In the late 1980s, Peter, as an architect, was part of a group of architects, town planners and people keen to live together and be part of an experiment that could change the trend of habitation, with benefits to the future township. Much time and many discussions later, three architects—Suhasini, Ajit and Peter—designed parts of the Samasti project separately, exchanging ideas on those decisions that would influence the neighbourhood as a whole. The result was Samasti community, where Peter designed four houses.

When the Berlin Wall came down in 1989, Peter was drawn back to that city with its newly opened opportunities. Peter was inspired to organise a talk on Auroville in Potsdam (the eastern part of Berlin) in 1990 for people from the former DDR. “Peter handled it with his calm, easy-going manner as a disciple of Sri Aurobindo and the Mother,” as his friend Rolf B. who helped him at the time, writes.

In November 1989 he attended the International Prague Assembly, organized by the “Union of Czechoslovak Architects. With great effort he managed to gather material and present the project of Auroville there, which ended up being the most comprehensive project there, one that was actually happening on the ground. It generated a lot of interest. His presentation ended up winning the (shared) first prize. (Auroville Today no. 16, April 1990).

In the late 1990s he took part, in Auroville, in a City Study Circle, in which several architects and town planners took part, and later on, in the early 2000s he was very interested in the collaborative Dreamcatchers and subsequent Dreamweaving city planning process that focused on practical solutions for building the city. He moved to an apartment in Luminosity, soon after its completion in 2010 and also had an office there.

Peter kept spending much of his time in Berlin and the rest of Europe, giving talks and presentations as a kind of "ambassador" for Auroville and its architecture. He was affectionately called "Peter Pan" by his friends, a seemingly apt nickname that characterizes his usually sweet, free-spirited and easy-going manner.

He passed away due to cancer on 13 June, 2026 at Marika Home, choosing to die there rather than undergoing life-extending treatment at Jipmer hospital. His funeral took place on Friday, 19 June, at the Auroville Burial Ground.

Films

Monday, 4pm @ Sangam Hall

- 29 June: Life After Life—This film by Peter Shockey is based on the research by Dr. Raymond A. Moody in the 1970s involving thousands of people who experienced clinical death, and “went to the other side” and were subsequently revived.

Six people are talk about their personal out-of-body experiences, their journey to the other side, and their return. The causes of their near-death experiences (NDE) were: lightning, suicide, complications after surgery, double lobar pneumonia, multiple bee stings, and assassination by the KGB. They describe their experiences as out of body. They talk of angels and ecstasy, soul travel, tunnel leading to the light, life preview and return. Duration: 67min.

On the other side, bathing in the warm light of unconditional love, they often see their relatives or friends. Often, they see a panorama that consists of everything they ever have done in their lives, from their birth until the time they call death.

All those who come back have a new value system. It is based on loving others and seeking love-based relationships. And they have no more fear of death. They know the importance of Love through experiences of unconditional Love and Wisdom on the other side.

Research on near-death experiences and death had been done earlier. In 1968, Celia Green published an analysis of 400 first-hand accounts of out-of-body experiences, and in 1969, Elisabeth Kübler-Ross, Swiss-American psychiatrist and pioneer in near-death studies, published her well-known book On Death and Dying: What the Dying Have to Teach Doctors, Nurses, Clergy, and Their Own Families.

The special contribution by Elisabeth Kübler-Ross was to introduce new psychological practices after World War II so that ill and dying persons could be treated with understanding, care and compassion.

In 1975, Dr. Raymond A. Moody published his book Life After Life with a detailed classification of near-death-experience psychology, which inspired larger scientific interest in life after death. Throughout his life, he promoted a sincere scientific understanding and a new perspective on death, dying, and the afterlife. Also, Raymond A. Moody trained hospice workers, clergy, psychologists, nurses, doctors, and other medical professionals in matters related to death, dying, grief, and recovery.

It is important to look at the scientific research into death and near-death experiences through the lens of The Mother and Sri Aurobindo's long dedicated work to bring down the Supramental consciousness force in 1956, their contribution to conquering death and illness and to promoting the idea of inner Divinity and immortality, the descent of the Supermind in January 1969, to exploring the transformation of the cells and establishing a Life Divine on earth.

To conquer death and establish light, joy, and immortality on earth is the core message of Sri Aurobindo's epic poem Savitri and the mission of Savitri, the incarnation of the Divine Mother.

When The Mother was twenty, she created passages of light through the vital world so that the souls of physically dead people could more easily transition to the other side, the world of light and love (Lopa Mukherjee, "The Mother's Inner Life", at Sri Aurobindo International Centre of Education).

In the course of time, the Divine Mother's passages of light and protection through the vital world have made it increasingly possible for the physically dead people to go through the tunnel of light to the other side, to stay and rest there for the integration of their earthly experiences.

A ray of light from above is also central in The Mother's design of the Matrimandir's Inner Chamber. Light from above falls on the transparent crystal, resting on Sri Aurobindo's symbol, and then gets transferred through many levels all the way down to the ground.

This design by The Mother of a ray of light entering from above is of immense beauty and carries profound wisdom. It is a symbol and an invitation for us to aspire from the depths of our souls and to be open to the light and wisdom from above.

The film Life After Life allows us to broaden our consciousness beyond our normal human range. The film is also available on Vimeo under its title:

◦ <https://vimeo.com/85524391>

- 6 July: About Savitri—Book 1: The Book of Beginnings, Canto 4—The Secret Knowledge, Part 3—read and commented by The Mother. After the series Meditations on Savitri, The Mother, together with Huta, took up the project About Savitri from January 1968 to August 1970. The Mother read lines from Sri Aurobindo's epic poem Savitri and gave her commentaries that were tape-recorded. Her reading of Savitri and commentaries are here under the headings: The Deeper Truer Vision, The Usual Condition of Man, The Vision of the Immortals, and The Present Ignorant State.

The texts of Savitri and of The Mother's commentaries are displayed on the screen. This is the last compilation of four from altogether 65 videos About Savitri which Savitri Bhavan has been presented since November 2025. Duration: 43min.

All 65 videos of "ABOUT SAVITRI—The Mother's Commentary" are available on the AuroMaa website: <https://auromaa.org/about-savitri-the-mothers-commentary/>

- 13 July: Water: The Great Mystery—In this interesting and awarded Russian documentary from 2006, scientists from various countries and representatives from the largest religions discuss the importance and the memory of water and present their research work. Duration: 86min.
- 20 July: The Messages of Water—Water Crystals in Motion. With experiments and photographs of ice crystals Masaru Emoto demonstrated that human consciousness has an effect on the molecular structure of water. Duration: 38min.

Followed by Has Water Memory? 'Yes, water has memory and since ancient times Indian science knows this', is the answers to the question by Sadhguru at IIT Madras. Duration: 9min.

- 27 July: Water Ceremony for Auroville's 50th anniversary 28-2-2018. During the water ceremony at sunrise of February 28 2018, young Aurovilians poured the water from 320 different sources on earth into a golden bowl at the Matrimandir amphitheatre and the background sounds of the Auroville Choir and musicians completes the beautiful memorable event. Filmed by Manohar. Duration: 42min.

We will seek to enter into a state of receptivity by not doing, getting ourselves out of the way to allow the Consciousness to bring about the right organization and balance of particles and energies. Guided by Misha (Mike).

- You are encouraged to send in a draft version of your proposal before finalizing the application.

Following the procedures set up by the Foundation for World Education and Stichting De Zaaier, proposals will be checked to ensure that the grant request falls within their funding criteria and then forwarded to them to be reviewed for selection and grant allocation by their Board members.

Please note that funds are not available for infrastructure, buildings or transport. Requests for equipment will be considered if specifically required for the implementation of the project and are not already available in Auroville.

For the SAIER Summer Internship Team

FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

living and working in Auroville

To interns, young volunteers and professionals in Auroville, And curious youth of Auroville, this is for you.

Many of you have likely arrived through a particular project, internship, apprenticeship, volunteer programme, or field of work; or as youth of Auroville, are involved today in one or two particular areas of work. Yet Auroville itself is much larger than any single unit, profession, or area of activity.

Alongside your work placement, SAIER would like to invite you into a complementary learning journey shared with other young people currently living and working in Auroville.

We propose to explore the deeper context from which Auroville emerges.

This will include:

- Weekly or bi-weekly Exploration of the context and raison d'être of Auroville, Sri Aurobindo's and The Mother's works, and the ancient Indian quest for meaning and purpose of life
- Consolidated information on and strong encouragement of a regular physical education practice during their stay in Auroville.
- A weekly moment for reflection, dialogue, and self-assessment among interns from different units and fields of study.

The intention is to create a space within your work schedule, in which these questions can be explored and the practical work of daily life can be placed within a wider scope.

An email has been sent to units of Auroville to invite them to explore this possibility. And ensure that if you are interested you will be supported in this exploration.

If this resonates with you, we invite you to fill out this short form. We have already had a first meeting this week and the exploratory sessions are beginning. We look forward to meeting you.

THE IDEA KITCHEN:

Where do you go when you're not a customer?

Taco Nights

Every Friday, 7pm onwards
@ YouthLink

Lots of new fancy spaces are opening around us. But many of them aren't built for the locals who are a part of keeping this community alive, the people who live and work here.

Across Auroville and its surrounding villages, we see more and more beautiful, fancy spaces opening up. But do we also notice that many of these spaces are inaccessible to a lot of common folks?

We don't have an answer to making every space accessible to everyone. But we do have the energy to build spaces that are.

Welcome to the Idea Kitchen

Every week, we host a taco night with food, music, and games. Anyone can come, eat, and enjoy.

There is no fixed price. Instead, contributions are generosity-based. If you are able to contribute, it helps us cover food, setup, and other basic costs. If you are able to contribute more, it helps keep the space accessible to those who cannot contribute.

Our intention is not to generate large profits, but to generate something much more valuable: community. In a time when many spaces are becoming increasingly commercial, this is an experiment in accessibility, trust, and community.

If you believe spaces like this matter, we invite you to become a monthly supporter of this initiative. Every donation, regardless of size, helps sustain this vision.

THE FOOL EXHIBITION

@ Aurelec

On the edge of an epic journey, the Fool peers into the abyss below and senses the seed of life calling out to her. She sees the opportunity and stardust swirling, and she knows that her dream begins with this single step. She's not sure what she will learn or exactly where she's headed, but she has clarity about one thing: she will need to jump in order to begin. With her crystal amplifier to guide her, and her wand to protect her, she feels her toes slide past the threshold of her current reality.

ABHAYA MARTIAL ARTS

Abhaya Martial Arts For more than ten years, Abhaya Martial Arts Academy has been active in Auroville with regular martial arts classes. The Academy was founded as the Indian branch of the Shou Dao School, where Shou Wu is practiced—a system that integrates internal martial arts and self-defence, while also engaging in MMA, the most demanding testing ground to guarantee real martial progress.

In addition to teaching children and adults—and accompanying some of them to important tournaments—Abhaya has been responsible for the training of the First Responders of the Security, and has long-standing collaborations with a few NGOs, supporting orphans, underprivileged women and survivors of human trafficking. Some of these women, after years of training, have become instructors themselves.

Thanks to the excellent results achieved and the constantly growing number of students (recently up to 80 per month), Abhaya is collaborating with highly skilled instructors—masters of Muay Thai, Shou Dao, BJJ and Boxing—offering even more classes and opportunities to learn not only how to defend oneself and understand one's own body, but also how to transmit this knowledge to others.

Starting from January, Abhaya will adopt a new belt system, and will open a clearer pathway for students and instructors to grow within the Academy.

- 3 days Intensive Permaculture Weekend Workshop
 - View schedule and book here: <https://solitude.farm/workshop/>

Join us on a road back to nature with this intensive and hands-on workshop that will empower you to start growing your own food and gain insight into knowing where your food comes from. - Mini Permaculture Workshop
 - Please email us: solitudepermaculture@gmail.com for the booking.

We offer mini permaculture workshops as private bookings for the group size 4 + participants. Duration: 2 hours. The group can select any workshop module mentioned below.

- Introduction to permaculture through local food: Solitude Farm is a true example of Masanobu Fukuoka's philosophy in practice—a road back to nature through eating local food. In this workshop explore the wide diversity of plants that grow around us, their countless benefits, and delectable taste and even learn how to make your own vegan sushi, salad and coolers!
- Handmade Soap-Making: By revaluing papaya seeds, neem flowers and soursop leaves, create your own natural soap and recycle waste water to grow your own food. We'll show you how to pack your soap in banana leaves and inspire you to cut out packaging with simple, creative ideas. The soap is yours to take away!

ACTIVITIES AT AUROORCHARD

Weekly Farm Walk:

AuroOrchard is Auroville's oldest farm, founded in 1968-69 under the guidance of the Mother with the vision of "growing food for Auroville." Spread over 25 acres of red earth on the eastern coast of Tamil Nadu, AuroOrchard has been a cornerstone of Auroville's food system for more than five decades.

Today, we produce over 50% of the fruits and vegetables and 90% of the eggs from Auroville farms. We grow a diversity of crops—mangoes, papayas, bananas, guavas, citrus, roots and tubers, leafy greens, vegetables, and herbs—alongside a small poultry that provides eggs. Each year, these fields and orchards yield several tonnes of fresh food, much of it flowing directly to Auroville's kitchens and residents. These numbers are never the measure of the work, but rather quiet signs of the farm's steady rhythm of care and abundance.

Join us for a stroll through these orchards and vegetable gardens and learn about the agroecological techniques that we practice at the farm.

- Every Wednesday, 10am—12pm.
- Registration required, sign up here.

CSA baskets:

Auro Orchard's Basket System is a community-supported program that allows customers to select fresh, seasonal produce such as fruits, vegetables, greens, herbs, eggs, nuts, and Abundance; farm-processed products like pesto, syrups, and nut spreads from a weekly updated harvest list. Members place their orders based on seasonal availability and collect their chosen items directly from the farm or from the pick up points inside Auroville.

- Please sign up for the baskets here to get added to the list.

Volunteering:

Spread over 25 acres, AuroOrchard is Auroville's oldest farm producing a diversity of fruits and vegetables and eggs that are supplied directly to Auroville's kitchens and residents. Join us to learn to work with the soil, plants and food while sharing with a diverse group of people. We offer a welcoming environment for learners, researchers, and seekers who wish to help us and learn more about the land, food, culture, and themselves.

- Monday to Saturday, 7—9am and/ or 9:30am—12pm.
- We offer breakfast made with farm produce!

AUROVILLE PRE CRECHE is calling you

To become a little present, a little patient, a little quiet, a little conscious with the little ones of Auroville.

"When you take the children very young, it is wonderful. There is so little to do: it is enough to be."

Working at the AV Pre Creche reveals the profound truth in these simple words of The Mother. A little child learns and responds to our presence more than our actions and our words.

In this sense, volunteering at the Pre-Crèche is not only about supporting children; it is also an invitation to Self-discovery. If you are curious about human development and want to understand how a city that aspires to unending education begins by nurturing consciousness from the very earliest years, this is for you.

You may arrive thinking you are coming to help children grow. You may discover that they are quietly helping you do the same. Minimum commitment:

- 4 months, 3 days per week, 2 hours per day

To apply, please write with a brief introduction and your interest in this work to: avprecreche@auroville.org.in

Work Offering

LOOKING FOR A FULL-TIME JOB

Sought: Work That Seeks Me Back

In Auroville, work always found me. In April, an office order found me instead, removing me.

After 20 years at MMC-Cinema Paradiso, I duly filled out the HRS form to access a few months of bridging fund. I have been advised to find something soon, or else...

What I left behind: 360 films/ 900+ hours of programming per year, 2 official off days/year in 20 years, zero spent on holidays or social expenses. An adequate running budget, an expensive sound system replaced (Rs. 5 lakhs+) through an AVI-USA donation, a new projector (Rs. 5 lakhs) and laptop (Rs. 74K) purchased from funds we had set aside, Rs. 6 lakhs+ still in reserve for further equipment work that are always expensive, and a recurring donation stream generously pledged by the community that more than replaced the monthly budget we had lost. It was a community theatre. It was supported and held by the community.

What I also bring: ecology and wildlife (MS with Dr. Rauf Ali, PhD from the USA), expertise in forest and habitat assessments, and substantial experience in the development sector: project and programme evaluation, grant review, monitoring, management, advisory.

What I am looking for: full maintenance, ideally flexible hours, independence, and work that is needed and that needs me. Available from 1 August. The arrangements, however, need to start soon.

VOCATION

and Identity of a True Researcher

The International (World) University for Human Unity, because of which in 1967 a 33-page project was prepared, and whose concept and ideals Kailas Javery outlined in 1969 in a paper, cannot be dissociated from the context of the 50,000 inhabitants model town Mother wished within ten years—or five, adopting systems engineering. In this perspective, the November 1967 darshan issue of the Ashram Bulletin published the photograph of a layout, with Mother's handwritten statement "Auroville the town of the future", featuring two macrostructures; each one hosted over 15,000 residents. The International University for Human Unity, and the town of 50,000 are inseparable. That university—whose origin is very special, the way Kailas highlights—cannot come into existence unless we revert to Mother's original vision, in its entirety.

Twenty years later, at the end of 1987, Roger Anger asked me, with the approval of Kireet Joshi, to write the concepts for two master plans: that of the town, and that of the university's. With me, Roger used the word 'university'; but when he contacted Kireet Joshi (the former registrar of the Sri Aurobindo Ashram School and College, and the one who drafted the 1967 project), the latter replied that, given Auroville's modest development, we could not establish a university in Auroville for several reasons, including legal ones. In its place, he proposed the Centre of International Research for Human Unity (CIRHU), as a seed-institution for future projects. Alas, as events have unfolded, even this appears to be far away.

This clarified, I wish to reassert something I have been highlighting since when I joined Auroville in 1985: the vocation and identity of a true researcher. Four of my professors, faculties of Philosophy and History, State University of Milan, were celebrities. Besides that, through my husband (a director of the cultural programs of the Italian State Television) I met other academics, some were our close friends. With regard to academic research, they excelled. But this is not, in essence, what Auroville looks for. Academic knowledge implies an intellectual elite, cultural debates and all that goes along; but in Auroville this comes second to the contents and goals of our lived experience, in mutual exchange. As if foreseeing this cardinal observation, in the university 1967 project is stated:

"Begin appointments of academic and administrative staff for all faculties. At least the staff has to join one year before they are expected to participate in teaching or administrative activities. All administrative, teaching and other staff will undertake intensive self study and group study to understand the aims and objectives of the International University and the teachings of the Divine Mother and Sri Aurobindo."

I discussed the issue with Kailas on different occasions, every time she replied that one year is not enough. Describing what she expected of the professors joining the International University of Human Unity, she used words evocative of the second transformation of Integral Yoga, the spiritual one—along with the definition in Aurobindonian terms of "human unity". Kailash always soared high, nevertheless this is a poignant indication.

In Auroville an essential question arises: teaching—or researching? To be a university professor requires considerable academic knowledge to be imparted to students. In contrast, a researcher collects and draws together data and information for analysis in a never-ending study, reformulating hypotheses and conclusions as new material is acquired, drawing upon an ever-changing canvas, like passing clouds in the sky. For a true researcher the quest never ends, for this would be the end of research itself.

As with life, in the world of research nothing is final and absolute, things are in perennial movement; today's certainty may become obsolete tomorrow, and tomorrow's certainty may change and turn obsolete too. This has become even more obvious in the internet age, where the unending flux of information, gathered from all over the globe, chisels and re-defines everything, endlessly, at every moment.

Knowledge has no end, cannot be sealed into boxes. The mind (manas) classifies and compartmentalizes, the thinking animal says "I know hence I teach." But the mind is being surpassed, the kingdom of reason is coming to end. Above the human mind and its summit, the intellect, other wide-ranging 'minds' open up. These levels of 'divine mind' are the precursors of the oncoming spiritual age, where things are known from deep within, or as sudden inspirations, or through flashes of intuition. In this new 'knowledge' discordant elements, strifes and clashes, certainties and uncertainties, all opposites merge and become synthesized into one all-encompassing whole, portending the dawn of the supramental age.

Mother's favorite flower was "plasticity." This is the main attribute required from a true researcher: unflinching flexibility, illimitable curiosity and openness to all quests and paths, irrepressible vocation to embrace and make one's own all explorations and meandering searches and adventures, in a universe which is as infinite as Search itself. True to oneself, the quest never ends. Then can we speak of knowledge, necessarily coming from planes of consciousness far above the ordinary mentality. Sri Aurobindo distinguishes between an ordinary, lower buddhi, the intellect, and the higher buddhi, which at its highest reaches vijnana, at one point described by Sri Aurobindo as the gnosis or knowledge aspect of the Supermind. What the ancient Greeks called nous, with multiple interpretations of the term, is the starting point of the journey. This is what RESEARCH, in Auroville, should be about; whatever institutional denomination, proportionate to our means we chose, but never forgetting this guiding principle.

Self-realisation (the second of the three transformations of Integral Yoga) is far too advanced, Kailash's expectation is unrealistic. But to be a university professor, in Auroville, demands being a researcher as well and in life itself: academic knowledge and unending quest for truth in one. It also means to build, at the same time, an integrated personality, while dedicating one's life to the path of self-perfection that, for completion, requires the spiritual dimension. This implies the development of a global consciousness, which is the role of Auroville to encourage and enhance, true human unity. Unless Mother's vision becomes reality, in all its splendour but also with all the challenges that this implies, the International University for Human Unity cannot be realized. We have neither, the professors nor the students; nor do we have the residents and motivated visitors necessary to pursue an endeavour of such dimension.

It is the spirit of investigation and unending research that has to be awakened first, in syntony with the dawning new world and society. We have to make a breakthrough and recover the true spirit of Auroville, attracting real researchers in the most integral sense of the word, divested of politics, ambitions, power struggle. Search for ontological perfection is the one preliminary step before anything real can commence.

DESTRUCTION BY ONE'S OWN RESISTANCE

Continuing from my last post 'Auroville's Raison D'être' with the Mother's crystal clear declaration for anyone participating in Her and Sri Aurobindo's Auroville:

"Humanity is not the last rung of terrestrial creation. Evolution continues and man will be surpassed. It is for each one to know whether he wants to participate in the advent of the new species. For those who are satisfied with the world as it is, Auroville obviously has no raison d'être."

Mother continues in the following to make us understand the mechanics, of how the Action of the Divine Supramental Will and Force works, and the dire effects of the resistance to It: "For national events, relations among nations, world circumstances, it acts like that, constantly, constantly, as a tremendous Power. And so if one is oneself in a state of union with the divine Will, without any intervention of thought, or any conception or idea, one can follow it, one sees and knows."

The resistances of the inertia that is in every consciousness and in Matter mean that this Action, instead of being direct and perfectly harmonious, becomes confused, full of contradictions, clashes and conflicts; instead of everything resolving itself "normally", so to say, smoothly—as it should be—all this inertia that resists and opposes, gives it a tangled movement in which things collide and there is disorder and destruction, which become necessary only because of the resistance, but which were not indispensable, which might not have existed—which truly speaking should not have been—because this Will, this Power is a Power of perfect harmony where each thing is in its place, and it organises things wonderfully. It comes as an absolutely luminous and perfect organisation, which one can see when one has the vision; but when it comes down and presses on Matter, everything begins to seethe and resist. Therefore, to attempt to impute the disorders and confusions and destructions to the divine Action, to the divine Power, is another human foolishness. It is the inertia—not to mention the bad will—which causes the catastrophe. It is not that the catastrophe was intended, nor even foreseen, it is caused by the resistance.

And then, there is added the vision of the action of Grace, which comes to moderate the results wherever possible, that is to say, wherever it is accepted. And this explains why aspiration, faith, complete trust on the part of the earthly human element have a harmonising power, because they allow the Grace to come and set right the consequences of this blind resistance.

This is a clear vision—clear, clear, even in the details.

One could, if one wanted to, make prophecies by saying what has been seen. But there is a kind of super-compassion which prevents this prophecy, because the Word of Truth has a power of manifestation and to express the result of the resistance would make that state concrete and diminish the action of the Grace. That is why even when one sees, one cannot speak, one must not speak.

But Sri Aurobindo certainly meant that it is this Power, this Force which does everything—which does everything. When one sees it or is one with it, one knows at the same time, one knows that That is really the only thing that acts and creates; everything else is the result of the domain or the world or the material or the substance in which it acts—the result of the resistance, but not the Action. And to unite with That means to unite with the Action; to unite with what is below means to unite with the resistance.

And so because it wriggles and tosses and turns, wants and thinks and makes plans... it imagines that it is doing something—it is resisting.

Later, a little later, I shall be able to give examples for very small things, showing how the Force acts and what interferes and mixes with it, or is moved by this Force and distorts its movement, and the result, that is to say, the physical appearance as we see it. Even the example of a very small thing with absolutely no importance for the world, gives a clear idea of the way in which everything happens and is distorted here.

And this applies to everything, everything, all the time, all the time.”

The Vision-Goal and Guidance behind Their Auroville is crystal clear with the integrated Three Core Documents ‘A Dream’, ‘The Auroville Charter’ and ‘To Be a True Aurovilian’, with the Prime Directive:

“The whole earth must prepare itself for the advent of the new species, and Auroville wants to work consciously to hasten this advent.”

With this Crystal Clear Understanding, Narrative and Purpose we can collaboratively proceed to develop Auroville the City of Dawn, Cradle of the Supramental being, as per its raison d’être.

We consciously continue on... towards the Life Divine.

AN OFFERING from Food System Envisioning

For the past year, a group of Aurovilians have been meeting regularly in order to address challenges on Auroville's food system that have become more visible in recent years, and to envision a new system that improves the interconnectedness between the community, food and farmers of Auroville.

This article is the second in a series of our reflections and aspirations, to continue to nurture a space for conversations on food and farming in Auroville. The first article was about why we grow food in Auroville and the different dimensions of agriculture, which you can find here.

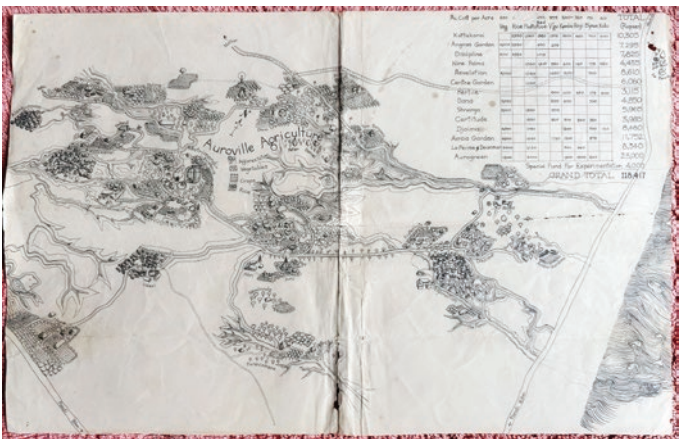

In order to have a grounded understanding of the system we currently have, it's essential to look at the context and the history in which it emerged. Ecological realities, economic necessities, social contexts and inner aspirations don't often align. How did we try to align these in the past? What decisions and creations emerged as a response? In what ways are the questions we are facing today different from those 30, 40, 50 years ago, in what ways are they the same? What are we carrying from the past which doesn't work in the present anymore?

How it all began

Farming in Auroville began with the beginning of the community itself, in 1969. Most residents were involved in food production out of necessity, an effort that spanned both established farms and various kitchen gardens throughout the community. Initial farms in the 1970s included AuroOrchard, Service Farm, AuroGreen, Kottakarai, and Revelation, and by the 1980s included Annapurna, Discipline, Djaima, Fertile. They grew seasonal fruits and vegetables, crops like peanuts, ragi, gram, varagu, ulundu, red rice, sesame, and some had dairies and poultrys.

Where are our kitchen gardens today?
Is there one in your community?

If yes, how is it going, and if not, do you know why?
What can we do today to create a deeper reverence for what feeds us?

A sketch made by Johnny (Fertile) in the 80's of the then farms of Auroville. To enlarge, click here.

Auroville has 26 farms today. Do you know where they are?

Central Food Distribution Centre and Pour Tous

In the 1970s, Auroville produced snake gourd, green papaya, tapioca, pumpkin, and beans, and some food was of course sourced from Pondicherry. However, it was considered essential for the community to adapt to affordable local crops in order to survive. Pour Tous fund was the first community fund, created 1st January 1976. It received donations and maintenances (Rs. 125 / month) from the Sri Aurobindo Society (SAS). A spirit of collective endeavor led to the creation of a Central Food Distribution Centre where today we have Udavi school, and subsequently the opening of Pour Tous near Aspiration Community on February 28, 1974. When SAS took away the maintenance for Aurovilians, Aurovilians stepped up within a week, and organised to bring everything that they had for collective distribution in order to survive. Everything was shared equally in baskets to be delivered to each community roughly every alternate day. The historic Pour Tous meetings, the first regular resident meetings, were held around bags of potatoes and tomatoes, and a recurring topic was—how and what do we eat. Food and governance were the same thing. The “Envelope” system started in 1978—a method of budgeting modelled after the Mother’s management of ashram finances, and an envelope of donations/collected funds named ‘Pour Tous’ was used to purchase food for the collective.

In the late 80’s / early 90’s, the baskets of Pour Tous gave way to a stall where individuals came to purchase what they wanted. What was originally designed as a system to ensure our needs are met collectively and our resources pooled had to evolve to serve the emerging reality that people wanted the food they could afford with their own means, irrespective of what the collective could afford. People fought over sticks of butter. This was an interesting point in our history. As our means increased, we became more individualistic.

Today then, when the goal of food self-sufficiency is less about surviving and more about thriving, how sincerely are we asking ourselves of our ‘needs’ in the food we eat? How responsibly are we living this question collectively, how courageously are we walking towards this goal when it no longer looms over us demanding us to walk it?

In this stall, one had to point to a bin from behind a counter and request apples, bananas, potatoes, papayas, while someone else would pick the item and put it on a scale. This was of concern to some people—they wanted to connect, to touch, to feel the beetroot, the watermelon. It was only in the early 2000’s that Pour Tous set it up so you could pick your own produce.

What is your direct connection to the food you eat?

Do you want to choose it yourself?

Do you have a way of picking a watermelon?

How concerned are you about how your pumpkin looks?

Food Growing Cooperative, and the Pandy market

In 1978, we witnessed the first attempt at formal organization of AV farms in a Food Growing Cooperative consisting of thirteen farms. It operated through a dedicated envelope which was used for growing food that provided farms with budgets. The Cooperative received the produce sales revenue in return, but the idealism of the envelope system struggled as the population grew. The cooperative collapsed in 1983, as did the envelope system in 1984. In its place, individual accounts were created and farmers went back to operating on an individual basis.

A major crisis befell the food system when in the 1990’s the Tamil Nadu Electricity Board decided to discontinue their inclusion of AV in their policy of providing free electricity to farmers for pumping. This had a major effect on our largest farms at the time—AuroOrchard and Aurogreen—which were forced to downsize operations drastically over the coming years. Food from the Pandy market thus offered an effective backup for our needs.

Today, this backup has turned into the primary option to meet our food needs. This is in large part due to our unadapted preferences to our local reality—a problem 50 years old that we have been unable to address as yet—but also due to its cost effectiveness, or rather, its hidden cost—our health. Knowing that the food from the Pandy market, like in every market, is grown using chemicals by farmers and workers in a hostile economic system, we must ask if we care about creating a different economy grounded in conscious choices, preferences and needs.

- How do we nurture this aspiration today?
- How do we support Auroville's farms?
- How enthusiastically do we offer our participation in our food system?

Farm Group, more organised finances and processes

The farms of Auroville organized themselves on a large scale again in the form of the Farm Group in the early 1990s to ensure optimal use of available assets, to set up financial processes, and to define policies collectively for land development. Farmers began to receive a maintenance from the Central Fund to ensure their own basic needs were looked after as they worked to produce food for the community. A common granary (now called Auroville Grains) was established in 2011 at Annapurna to process the grains grown in Auroville and ensure quality, storage and steady supply throughout the year. Subgroups within the Farm Group of dairy, grain and vegetables and fruit subsequently emerged to share knowledge, take decisions collectively, raise funds, etc.

Direct Baskets from the farms

Across the world, there is a growing concern about people losing connection with their food. To address this gap, some farmers have started offering baskets directly to community members and have direct communication with the consumers. Annapurna and AuroOrchard send out a link every week by email and Whatsapp where people can order and receive their baskets at Foodlink or outside PTDC. Terrasoul hosts a market every week where people can visit and buy fresh produce. The intention of some farmers remains to be in intimate contact with consumers, to share how the food is grown, the joy and the challenges that we face as a community in covering our nutritional needs. Others are less visible but produce food for the community on a daily basis, which is available at Foodlink.

Would we like to have more farms offering basket opportunities?

Do we need more information about what is available in the baskets and how it works?

We, in Food System Envisioning, are exploring different ways to address these questions, amongst others, with some key actors in Auroville's food system.

PRANASHAKTI

Pranashakti continues welcoming people and holding space for offerings related to the education of the different aspects of the Vital being for both children and adults.

Explorations of the Vital in all its multitudinous forms continues with the intention to deepen in understanding, refinement and expression.

Some of our offerings of May—June were Little Thread Wonders, Art Cultivation, Theatre: Light in Action, Navarasas, Beauty as a base, Antardhwani, Integral Yoga Psychology, Improvisation and Playhood—an exploration of physical-vital stability through art, senses, play, coordination and conscious engagement with the body.

In one of the classes held by Lucas and Misha for adults, participants have been exploring the different parts of the being, through embodiment and movement exercises, somatically differentiating between the different parts of one's being; noticing their according textures, sensations and subtleties. These explorations invited more direct and embodied self-awareness.

In our Little Thread Wonders with Srividya, children explored the relationship between pattern, form and beauty through stitching, threading and weaving, with storytelling at the heart of the experience.

Using cotton and woolen threads and natural materials, we created a variety of gifts and soft braided friends, each becoming a symbol within their stories. The activities invited children to slow down, concentrate and stay with a process, while discovering the many ways beauty can emerge through simple materials and careful attention.

In Playhood facilitated by Natasha, a group of Auroville teachers entered the session with openness. What began with around eight participants gradually grew to nearly twenty-five as others were drawn into the spirit of playing together. Through a series of simple activities that develop spatial awareness, reflexes and physical confidence, the group moved to active participation and shared enjoyment. One participant initially resisted a particular game rule and expressed frustration with it. As the activity unfolded, she gradually chose to engage with the challenge, discovering new ways of participating. This became an opportunity to observe how the Vital responds to resistance, and how play can create a safe space for flexibility, perseverance and growth.

In the Navarasas workshop, Varsha took us through the exploration of the nine rasas described in Bharata's Natyashastra through movement and expression. By embodying different emotional states, participants were invited to observe, express and better understand the many movements of their emotional being. It was interesting to observe how interconnected they all are, seemingly different from an external perspective, yet once we begin to observe them more minutely we notice how a small change of inner orientation alters the composition of emotion-substance, raising the question where does one emotion end and another start?

It was interesting to observe, that even with extremities and what might seem oppositional or contradictory, we discover a secret unity at the heart within it all.

The doors of Pranashakti remain open for anyone interested in integral education and in contributing to this emerging exploration.

*"Someone broods there nameless and bodiless,
Conscious and lonely, deathless and infinite,
And, sole in a still eternal rapture,
Gathers all things to his heart for ever."*

COSMOS IN A GRAIN OF SAND

O Wanderer,
Gaze, Gaze, Gaze—
At the heavenly starry nights,
At the wondrous starscapes,
Through the new eyes of the Webb
At distant stars, at galaxies adrift,
Light years away.

What mesmerizing wonders you discover,
What revelations illuminate your way!

And yet—do you wonder
What light it is that forever
Reveals the cosmos in a grain of sand,
And heaven shimmering
In a wild thorn?
That manifests eternity
in the blink of an eye,
Infinity, ripening ever so quietly,
In a kernel of corn?

O Wanderer,
In what labyrinth are you entrapped?
What web ensnares your steps?
What veil must you lift?
What cataract clouds your eye—
Your heavenly gift?

You are the seer
Who beholds a multiverse
Far beyond a million light years away,
And far beyond all dark nights
And all grieving days.

Beyond all beginnings and all ends,
Beyond all proclamations
Of truth and lies,
Beyond and Beyond—
There is yet another Eye
And another Light
Scattering stars like sparks,
Across the infinite night.

O Wanderer,
Open your eyes,
And dare to see
This new light sparkling
All across the abyss of the black hole.

MICROCOSM OF THE INFINITE

*In Her alchemical laboratory of dawn, the sweep of His vision calibrated galaxies—
microfine, yet flawless in celestial ordonnance.
Collective consciousness pulsed through the ether,
while an ant, with sacerdotal resolve,
bore a solitary mote across the world's margin.*

The gesture seemed infinitesimal, yet mirrored the Divine sustaining immensities.

Still, the perennial enigma lingered:

Determinism—or Karmayoga?

*Yet the stars maintained their luminous arabesque,
the ant its consecrated pilgrimage,
and between destiny and surrender
the Infinite refined creation in silence.*

GLASS

*Fill our glass
with thy sacred wine.
When half drunk,
We won't tell mine from thine.*

We won't tell the time.

We won't even mind.

*Why haste us
with an hour glass
filled with sand?*

TREE CARE SERVICES

Regular tree maintenance is essential for ensuring safety, health, and longevity. Over time, trees can develop deadwood, structural weaknesses, or imbalanced growth that increases the risk of branch failure, especially during storms or high winds.

Routine inspections and pruning help identify and address these issues early, reducing hazards and costly interventions later. Proper maintenance also improves air circulation, light penetration, and overall vitality, enabling trees to better withstand environmental stress such as heat and drought.

Investing in regular tree care not only protects people and property but also supports a healthier, more resilient urban landscape.

VEDIC PHILOSOPHY AND ASTROLOGY

Weekly Sessions in Vedic Philosophy

- Saturdays, 3:30—4:30pm IST

I host a free, weekly live session where we explore one idea from Vedic philosophy and reflect on how it applies to everyday life.

Each week, we take a concept from the Vedas,

Gita, Upanishads, Yoga Sutras, or related texts, understand it in simple language, and sit with one small question or practice for the coming days. The sessions are conversational and reflective. About 30 minutes of sharing, followed by quiet reflection or a gentle interactive activity. This free to join.

You can join any week and step away anytime.

If this feels interesting, please register here:

Foundations in Vedic Astrology

I am starting a new cohort to learn to interpret your own birth chart using Vedic astrology, astronomy, Indian philosophy, and mythology. It is a year-long, beginner-friendly program. We meet weekly online, and the journey includes mentor support, reflective practices, and optional in-person retreats in South India near ancient temples.

The program is offered on a sliding scale to keep it accessible, and there is also a certification option through a reputed university in India.

Here is a presentation where I explain the structure, vision, curriculum, retreats, and practical details of the program:

- <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HZzeZA0JQQ>

- Starts: September 2026

- Weekly timeslot: will be decided with the group, most probably Saturdays

- Duration: 1 year; Fees: sliding scale

Thursdays, 2, 16, 30 July, 6—8pm

Most of us share the experience of coming to Auroville because we could not fit into the old culture and values. Our aspirations, joy, and pain were not seen, heard, understood, or valued enough, which created a sense of loneliness. This sense of loneliness can stay within us, often without our awareness, even after coming to Auroville, and may limit the way we live here.

Loneliness can be present even when one has friends, relationships, or spends a lot of time with people, if one is not seen and heard for who they are and what they are experiencing. Often, it remains unspoken and quietly carried.

This listening circle intends to create a space for authentic human connection through sharing without the fear of being judged, and through pure listening without thinking of a reply. All participants are required to consent to a confidentiality agreement before joining the circle.

No contribution is expected; you may offer a donation for the hall if you can. Guests are also welcome to join the circle.

- Register here before 5pm on the day of the circle:

Last Chance to See—Komodo Dragon

2009, 59 minutes, John-Paul Davidson

Travelling through Malaysia and Indonesia, the team sets out to find the formidable Komodo dragon, the world's largest lizard. Along the way, they help release sea turtles into the wild and encounter some of the region's most dangerous wildlife, including highly venomous snakes. The episode highlights the importance of conserving not only charismatic animals but also feared predators, showing that species like the Komodo dragon play a vital role in maintaining healthy ecosystems and deserve protection from extinction.
